

South Dakota Family – Black Hills & Mount Rushmore

Trip Summary

Mention the Black Hills of South Dakota and most of us remember an old Beatles song about one very special raccoon who resided there. For others, visions of Sturgis, the world's largest motorcycle rally, come to mind. What many don't imagine is an oasis of pine-clad mountains and prairie land, abundant wildlife, world-class National Parks and forests and a host of dedicated Rails to Trails bike routes.

The legendary Great Plains and Black Hills of South Dakota are the perfect backdrop for your 6-day biking adventure. Follow an abandoned railroad along the Mickelson Trail, traversing countless bridges and rock tunnels. Hike the base of Mount Rushmore, walk around the Native American cultural center at Crazy Horse Memorial and explore the depths of Wind Cave. At the end of the day, curl up somewhere with a good book and enjoy a delectable meal before calling it a night in the comfort of your comfortable hotel or lodge.

Activities

Biking: 20 to 25 miles per ride, easy to moderate terrain on paved roads and Mickelson Trail (packed gravel).

Hiking: 2 to 5 miles, easy to moderate terrain. Bear Butte – 1,025 feet of elevation gain over 2 miles (out and back).

Swimming: There will be several opportunities to swim in lakes this trip; but remember, weather is a factor and cold weather may prevent swimming from taking place.

Rock Climbing: 3 to 4 hour climbing adventure on the granite rocks bordering Sylvan Lake. Gear and detailed instruction will be provided by professional rock climbing guides, ensuring you'll feel comfortable, even if you're a beginner.

Discovery: Few attractions stir the emotions of visitors the way Mount Rushmore does. Since its completion in 1941, it has joined the Statue of Liberty and the Stars & Stripes as one of America's most inspiring symbols of democracy. Can you imagine a nose on a person that is 20 feet long?! On Mount Rushmore's presidents' six-story tall heads, their rather large noses appear quite normal. Discover the enormity of the Crazy Horse Memorial, its past and present controversies, and the mountain carving's historic significance at the Native American Cultural Center. Visit a herd of the friendly wild begging burros in South Dakota's first and largest state park, Custer State Park. Descend into the depths of Wind Cave, the first cave designated as a national park and home to approximately 95% of the world's boxwork formation. Follow the route of the 1890 Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad on the Mickelson Trail, keeping an eye out for wild turkeys along the way. Follow the steps of famous historic figures such as Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane, Jack McCall, and Seth Bullock in the Old West historic town of Deadwood. Come see all there is to do in the Mount Rushmore State!
